

TENACITY

The CFA charter requires a candidate to attain four years of relevant work experience and to pass three exams—each demanding a minimum of 250 hours of study. The CFA Program is a self-study curriculum, generally pursued while a candidate is employed full-time in the financial industry with all the requisite obligations of life: family, community, etc. Employers in the financial industry are well aware of the inherent tenacity represented in the letters CFA and what that tenacity brings to an organization.

ETHICS
TENACITY
RIGOR
ANALYTICS

“It is important not to take things as given. Different markets work differently and you have to be able to adapt to different environments, which is the case not only in finance, but in life.”

—Martha Oberndorfer, CFA

Learn more about CFA charterholders around the world and the CFA Program at cfainstitute.org/virtues

Martha Oberndorfer, CFA
Treasurer of the Republic of Austria

BORN:
Krems, Austria

EDUCATION:
*CFA charter
PhD, Business Administration
Johannes Kepler University Linz
MBA, Rotman School of Management*

ETHICS
TENACITY
RIGOR
ANALYTICS